TO THE PROFESSION.

Since the close of the last annual college term, three Chairs have been made vacant in this institution, by the resignation of Drs. John Evans, Professor of Obstetrics and Diseases of Women and Children; W. B. Herrick, Professor of Physiology and Pathology; H. A. Johnson, Professor of Materia Medica and Medical Jurisprudence. Dr. Evans retired from the active practice of his profession two or three years since, and his resignation was but the consummation of a purpose long since formed, and fully understood by his colleagues. The resignation of Professor Herrick was occasioned by such an impaired state of his health, as rendered him unable to perform the active duties of his profession. Both have retired enjoying the full confidence and the most cordial friendship of their colleagues, and we earnestly hope that they may yet enjoy many years of prosperity and usefulness. The chair of Obstetrics and Diseases of Women and Children has been filled by the appointment of W. H. Byford, M. D., of Evansville, Indiana. Dr. B. has already acquired a high reputation, both as a practitioner and teacher of medicine, and will bring to the discharge of his duties the qualities of a good writer and speaker, an observing and experienced practitioner, and a ripe scholar. The chair of Physiology and Pathology has been filled by the appointment of H. A. Johnson, M. D., who has just resigned that of Materia Medica, etc. Dr. Johnson having already filled a chair in the college for the last three years, his truly valuable qualities of head and heart are too well known to require any comments in this place. John H. Rauch, M. D., of Burlington, Iowa, has been appointed to the chair of Materia Medica, Therapeutics and Medical Jurisprudence, made vacant by the resignation of Dr. Johnson. Dr. Rauch is well known throughout the northwest as a man of high scientific attainments, and is eminently qualified for the place assigned him. With a faculty thus complete in number, and composed of men ardently devoted to the science and practice of the profession, the Rush Medical College will commence its next annual session with every facility for imparting medical knowledge which can be found in our country.

The Mercy Hospital, will continue fully accessible to the Hospital Class; and Clinical instruction will be given daily throughout the College term, an hour being set apart for that purpose every morning before the commencement of the daily lectures in the College.

During the hour, the Teachers of Clinical Medicine and Surgery are in attendance, in their respective wards,—and a certain division of the Hospital class accompanies each; and the instruction, in modes of examination, diagnosis, treatment, &c., is given, directly, at the bed-side of the patient, where each Student can examine the patient, individually; and practice auscultation and percussion, whenever the case requires it. By thus occupying the medical and surgical ward at the same time, and devoting an hour, each morning in the week, we are enabled to so divide the Hospital Class, that the number in attendance, in the same ward, at any one time, is not too great for full and detailed instruction, directly at the bed-side of the sick. We have pursued this course for the last four years; and with so much satisfaction, that out of an average class of 115 Students, 75 have taken the Hospital Ticket; and have been as punctual in attendance in the wards, up to the last day of the term, as on any part of the College Course. A regular Surgical Clinique will also be held in the lecture room of the College, at least one day in each week, by the Professor of Surgery, and Surgical operations will be performed before the class gratuitously. Practitioners and Students will thus perceive that we are enabled to give them opportunities for Clinical instruction fully equal to the best schools on this side of the Atlantic. But, while we spare neither time nor labor in availing ourselves of those hospital and Clinical facilities necessary to make our School eminently practical in all the details of Medicine and Surgery, there is also every possible facility afforded in the more elementary departments. In the Anatomical department the Material for dissection is fully equal to the wants of the class.

The Demonstrator will attend in the dissection room to give personal instruction at all suitable hours, and will make this department second in interest and importance to no other in the School.

Professor BLANEY's Laboratory is well known to be one of the best in the country; and his course embraces the relations of Chemistry to Toxicology, Pharmacy and Physiology.

In the Course on Surgery it will be the object of Professor BRAINARD to reduce his teaching and practice to the greatest degree of simplicity and uniformity consistent with fullness and completeness. Particularly will this end be aimed at in the use and application of those instruments and apparatus which, in recent times, constitute so large a Surgical Armory, but which are regarded as useless, and involving unnecessary expense. Surgical Anatomy and Surgical Pathology will be fully dwelt upon; and all operations and dressings shown upon the dead, and most of them, in addition, upon the living subjects.

The action of animal poisons and their antidotes, the effect of air in the veins, etc., will be illustrated by experiments before the class, on living animals in all cases where this method of teaching can be properly employed.

COMMENCEMENT OF THE COURSE.

The ANNUAL COURSE OF LECTURES, for the session of 1857—58, will commence on Monday the 2nd of November, and continue sixteen weeks.

It is very desirable that every student should be present on the first day of the Session, that he may have the instruction in each department in its completeness and natural order; there being but one general introduction, which will be given on the first day of the course.

The Dissection Room in the College will be opened, and the Clinical Lectures in the Hospital commenced on the first Tuesday of October, and will be regularly attended from that time to the end of the College term.
